This is a Good Design for a Small High School

The assembly room affords the particularly interesting part of this small high school. Placing this assembly room upon second floor results in not only high walls and ceiling for the room itself, insuring ample air space, but also makes it possible to add materially to the architectural effect of the exterior.

Venerable as was the "Little Red Schoolhouse" where the birthe rod formerly held sway, that historic relie which hald our fathers under tribute is fast becoming a mere memory. A structure built en broader lines and with a more intelligent eye to the increasing complex educational needs of a later generation, is taking its place. In the accompanying perspective and floor-plan of a school building for a nuburdan or rural district, we find a pertendent adaptation to the most advanced modern ideals combined with conformity to limitations of moderate cost—an update to date Public School Building—adapted to classroom use and community gatherings.

Substantial Building of Strong Design for Village or Town Hall

The design shown is an example of what may be accomplaised, by skilled planning, for even so unpremising a building as a small size Village or Town Hall—which has to provide accommodations not only for the village officials and the court but also for the village fire department and the lockup. Such a building is usually anything but an improvement to the looks of the street on which it stands, resembling more a livery statlee or barracks than as important public building. It has been also been also been also been also been also kind make it a hard problem of design, especially in view of the fact that the cost usualty has to be kept very low.

the fact that the cost usually has to be kept very low.

In this design the architect has solved the problem very satisfactory by placing the fire equipment room and the lockup in the ell at the rear of the hubling; the offices are at the front, with the court room immediately back of them. The building as a whole presents a very degified appearance. It is constructed of dark brown brick with Bedford stone trimmings.
